Learn techniques and strategies to create an almost infinite variety of dynamic abstract compositions from just a handful of type and a few cans of ink. Using a variety of letterpress printing methods and tools we will investigate the vast potential hidden within fonts, borders, and dingbats to make unique nonrepresentational art.

David Wolske received a BA in Studio Art from Marian University and an MFA in Graphic Design from Indiana University Bloomington. His work is exhibited and collected around the world and he teaches typography, graphic design, letterpress printing, and book arts classes and workshops across the United States. In 2016, David was the first Visiting Artist at Hatch Show Print, Nashville, TN. David's methodologies combine the traditions of letterpress and fine art printmaking with digital tools and design thinking into a unique cross-disciplinary workflow.

Beginner through advanced skill levels are welcome. Class will be filled on a first-come, first served basis with a maximum of 12 students. Registrations will be confirmed via email or mail.

Please note: David Wolske will lecture for BAG on Thursday June 22, 7-9pm, Odegaard Undergraduate Library, University of Washington. The School of Visual Concepts will host an exhibit of David's work during the month of June. Complete details will be announced separately.
